In Luck at Last!

In to-morrow's DAILY TIMES will be begun the publication of a serial story entitled "In Luck at Last," by the popular author Walter Besant, will be commenced. The writings of Mr. Besant are familiar to all readers of fiction. While of a deeply interesting character, holding the attention of the reader unflaggingly to the end, they are elevating and instructive, and absolutely free from the vulgarity and trashy nonsense so prevalent in the current literature of the day. "In Luck at Last" is one of Mr. Besant's best productions, and we feel convinced readers of THE TIMES will peruse it with great pleasure.

To secure the opening chapters intending subscribers should leave their names at the office of publication at once, or with THE TIMES carrier boys. The cost for delivery at residences within the city limits is only 25 cents per week.

Complaints of irregular delivery will be promptly attended to. Regular carriers are not allowed to sell papers intended for subscribers.

NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Annual Meeting in New York—The old Board Re-elected.

Special to THE TIMES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The annual meeting for the election of directors of the Northern Pacific Railway for the ensuing year is now in session. There is no change in the regular ticket presented to the stockholders from that of last year, and no serious opposition is anticipated. An injunction has been asked for by the Oregon Transcontinental people, from the Supreme Court, to restrain Messrs. Ives and Morgan from voting on Oregon Transcontinental trust stock at the meeting to-day. The annual statement of the Northern Pacific for the year ended June 15, shows gross receipts from freight, $7,446,000; passengers $3,076,000; mail and express, etc., $712,000; making a total of $11,234,000. The operating expenses were $6,196,000, leaving the net earnings at $5,038,000. Adding to this interest and dividends on the investment would leave a balance at general interest account, and incomes from other sources, amounting to $193,000. The total surplus is $5,201,000, out of which there was paid for rentals, $581,000; to branch roads, $530,000; maintenances of terminal property at Portland, $27,000, and interest of funded debt accounts, $4,024,000; contributed to sinking fund there were $50,000; and there was paid on the expenses of the opening celebrations $4,000, making a grand total of disbursement of $5,139,000, leaving a surplus over all fixed charges and expenses for the year of $92,000. Compared with the preceding year there was an increase in earnings, from commercial freight of $71,000, and from mail and express, etc., of $211,000; but there was a decrease in passenger earnings of $1,121,000, making the net decrease in commercial business of all kinds $839,000 during the past year. There were no charges made for the transportation of fuel and other supplies used in operating the road, and the amount charged for carrying construction material were only at cost price of transportation. The report states the principal cause of decrease in the passenger earnings was subsistence of the Coeur D'Alene excitement, to which must be added the opening N. P. road to Oregon by the Oregon Short Line, and the City branch of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Company, as well as the snow blockade on the route last winter, and the general depression of business throughout the country. These causes of decrease were an offset as to freight by the steady advance of population and development contiguous to the lines of the road.

As compared with the preceding year, the earnings had decreased $1,369,000 and the operating expenses $969,000. The balance sheet show no change in the common stock, and the decrease in preferred stock by land sales is $1,126,000. The common and preferred stock now amounts to $37,611,000. There was an increase in the first mortgage bonds of $3,125,000 issued on 125 miles of road. Of the $4,123,000 general second mortgage bonds remaining in hand a year ago $3,000,000 had been sold. There is no change in the bonded debt of the Pen D'Oreille division; while there is a decrease of $270,000 in the Missouri division. The total funded debt is now $617,345 not including dividend certificate of $4,641,000. The company paid to the Northern Pacific Terminal Co., during the year $,000 for rent and $27,000 for cost of maintenance.

THE CASCADE DIVISION.

Respecting the completion of the Cascade branch, about which there is a decided difference of opinion among the parties interested in the road, the report states that 27 miles are now under construction on the west side of the Cascade mountains and 40 miles on the east side. The cost to complete the track will be $1,840,000. There still remain 75½ miles, not including the 65 miles under way. The estimated cost of the 75½ miles is as follows: 15½ miles over the mountains, including tunnels nearly two miles long, $2,441,200; approaches on each side, $1,231,000, making a total of $3,872,000, to which is added for snow sheds, if needed, $2 ,000, making a grand total of a little over $4,000,000. The total estimated cost of the 40 miles required to complete the gap is $5,912,000. The mortgage bonds to be available for work amount to $3,513,000, leaving to be provided for from other sources, $2,399,000. The report says it will require between two and two and a half years to construct the tunnel. The total amount expended for construction and equipment during the past year was $3,562,000.

The report recommends the ratification of the lease of the Oregon Railway & Navigation Co., and states that when the subject shall be enacted upon by all the companies interested, it will be submitted to the stockholders of the Northern Pacific for their action.

The number of acres sold during the past year was 344,552 for $1,682,730. The amount of land patented, and patentable, still undisposed of, is over 37,700,000 acres, of which 29,000,000 acres are east of the Missouri river. The proceeds are applicable to the retirement of preferred stock.

New York Stocks.

Special to the TIMES.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Stocks were strong at opening, first prices generally showing a gain of ¼ to ¾. After opening, the market became active and somewhat feverish, but continued strong, advancing generally from ¼ to ⅜. After 2:12 p. m. the market became somewhat irregular, but with a general tendency toward weakness, and feverish until near the close, when the market became a little more steady, but dull. The coal stocks were very strong, resisting all efforts towards a reduction, with a tendency of an advance.

Railroad Collision.

Special to THE TIMES.

POTTSVILLE, Penn., Sept. 17.—Two sections of the west bound mixed train on the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad, came in collision to-day near Tamarend Junction. The second section was composed of loaded oil tanks, which were fired and burst by concussion. One end of the tank was thrown over three hundred yards and the iron band from another tank was wrapped three times around trees one hundred yards away. The burning all along the track destroyed ties and warped the rails for more than a mile. Travel will be suspended on that division for fully a week. The loss is estimated at $70,000.

Hospited for One Month.

Special to THE TIMES.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 17.—The date to which Riel is respited, so that the appeal in his case might be heard before the Imperial Privy Council, is October 18.

COLONIAL EXHIBITION

To be Held in London Next Year—Vast Importance.

Sir Charles Tupper Eloquently Explains its Importance to Canada.

During his visit to the Dominion Exhibition in London, Ont., last week, the Association presented Sir Charles Tupper, K. C. B., with a congratulatory address, expressive of the pleasure it gave the Association to be favored with the visitor's presence, and as an acknowledgment of the great benefit he was conferring on Canada by his patient and continued exertions in her behalf throughout Europe.

In his response to the address Sir Charles said: You have rightly stated in the address with which you have honored me that the occasion of the India and Colonial Exhibition which is to be held in London next year is one of vast importance and great moment to the Dominion of Canada. In continuing he said all knew that the country possesses an enormous area—as large and as important as that occupied by the fifty millions of people to the south of us. They possess the most healthy and invigorating climate in the world, have magnificent forests, inexhaustible fisheries, a fertile soil, the productiveness of which will compare favorably with any known, inexhaustible fisheries, and mineral wealth that might well excite the world. It was only right that the great attractions which Canada presents in all these respects should give it a position in the nations of the world of which they might be justly proud. They knew all that was necessary was that the people of overcrowded countries—of other countries, should know the attractions that Canada presents. As agriculturists he need not tell them that it was only necessary to witness the exhibits he had seen here to tell that Canada presents the finest lot to the people of the old world. To those possessing means, too, Canada offered attractions that could not be equalled by any other country in the world. He referred to the necessity existing for making known to the people of Great Britain and other foreign nations the resources, extent, wealth and fertility of the Dominion, and he called attention to the fact that the opportunity for so doing would be presented in

to be held in London next year. He said that all were aware that in 1851 Prince Albert started an international exhibition; in 1862 another international exhibition was held, at which Canada, the United States, Prince Edward Island, British Columbia, Quebec and Ontario, all made a most creditable display, but he reminded them that the space assigned to Canada on that occasion was one utterly insignificant in comparison with the great area that would be presented on this occasion. Next year they would enter an exhibition confined to the colonies alone. England expected and the world expected that Canada would then maintain the position he was proud to say they occupied to-day as the greatest colony in the British Empire. The country had reached a position which gave it the right to claim that it is the premier dependency of the empire, and when he told them that no less than 25,000 square feet had been assigned to Canada at the exhibition, they could realize what was expected of them at the exhibition. The manner in which the Association had met this matter had gave the most perfect assurance that they would not disappoint the great expectations formed. He reminded them that on that occasion they would not compete with England or its people; that none of the British or foreign productions would be given a place in it, but that the exhibition was intended to show what the Colonies, or Canada in particular, could do, and that they would comparatively have the field to themselves. He referred to the fact that the Colonies of

AUSTRALIA, NEW ZEALAND AND INDIA

would be represented, and said that it was necessary in the competition that Canada should maintain her high position. He was satisfied every patriot would, in justice to his country, his children and himself, put his shoulder to the wheel, and do full justice to the great resources of the country of which they were so proud. As he had told them, not a single British production could be put into the exhibition, yet English noblemen contribute towards this exhibition—in which they could take no part—no less than £150,000. The Prince of Wales asked that Canada should guarantee $10,000 and the other colonies $40,000 in all, towards the expenses. He (the speaker) as High Commissioner had asked the Dominion government for the $10,000, which was cheerfully given, and the other colonies had made up the other $40,000. Then these English noblemen came forward and pledged themselves for £150,000, so that the guarantee to-day was no less than £200,000, and thus they could see what interest is taken in their welfare in the mother country. It was seen that not only foreign nations but millions of British people visited former exhibitions, and though he was not a prophet, he would undertake to say that the largest number that ever entered these Exhibition Grounds would visit them for the purpose of witnessing this one. He (the speaker) wanted the people to make such a display that these visitors would be able to form a just and adequate conception of the

so that they could form an opinion on Canada as a place where they can secure a home and competence, as well as enjoy all the attractions. Not only from England, but from abroad, people would come with this idea in view to study in what way they could extend their empire, and in what part of the world they could extend their trade and business with the greatest profit to themselves. He alluded to another agency in this connection—the fact that the Australasian Colonies would be represented, and would desire to know how Canada had grown and developed. He believed Canada stood in a position pre-eminently of bidding to secure the trade of these colonies. It would be opened up by the C. P. R., which, in the following month, would be accomplished and opened up from the Atlantic to the Pacific. That railway would afford the most direct route to Australasia through a line of steamers, and he believed the day was close at hand when a fast line of steamers would be in operation between Port Moody and Australia. It was the place of every one in this Dominion to seize and take advantage of any large lines of trade that might be developed. He went on to refer to the importance of the coming exhibition to Canada, and to compliment the association upon the manner in which the association had responded to his appeal. The governments of Canada, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec had all responded to the appeal, and promised to give their support. He had asked them to give a full representation of the resources of their Province, and in a few days he would wait on and the Minister of Education, and he knew they would give a ready response as the others had, and that they would have the fullest justice done to the great resources of Ontario. He alluded to the Antwerp exhibition and Canada's connection therewith, speaking of the very creditable display made by the Dominion, and referring to the fact that the committee of judges had placed on record the fact that the cereals and grain shown by Canada surpassed those of the whole world—a fact the value of which to the country it was impossible to estimate. He mentioned the exhibit of the Massey Manufacturing company, and the fact that the machine was thoroughly tested and awarded a gold medal. He likewise alluded to the awards carried off by the musical instruments. He spoke with pride of the honors gained by Canada at that exhibition—3 diplomas of honor, 13 gold, 31 silver and 33 bronze medals, and 33 honorable mentions. He concluded by appealing to them to do justice to themselves and the country, by reminding them that circulars would be sent to the gentlemen engaged in collecting goods to be sent to the great Colonial exhibition in London, and by expressing his desire to do the utmost to promote the welfare of our beloved country.

WORSE THAN A MURDERER

The Effort to Ruin Stead of the Pall Mall Gazette.

A London special of the 12th to a New York journal, with reference to the trial of W. T. Stead and others, charged with the abduction of Eliza Armstrong, says it is noticeable that the would-be "chaste" newspapers which denounced Mr. Stead for the publication of the "Maiden Tribute to the Modern Babylon" are printing the evidence brought out in the case, which is about as suggestive as the original matter printed in the Pall Mall. Their effort has been to ruin Mr. Stead socially, but in this they will not succeed, as the testimony is gradually revealing the fact that the woman sold her daughter and the girl sold herself. Mr. Stead is willing to shoulder all the responsibility of furnishing an illustration of his photograph of morals in London, and his crusade has taken very tangible shape in the organization of a national vigilance association with branches in every town and village, designed to enforce the laws for the repression of criminal vice and public immorality. He is backed by men and women who share with him his publicly expressed wish that women should expect men to be as moral as themselves; that men should think they ought to be as moral as women, and that the seducer of an innocent girl should be regarded as worse than a murderer. There are those who sneer at such high-toned morality, but thousands believe it to be the right tone.

MARINE NOTES.

The bark Robert Kerr, which collided with Sau Juan Island, when being towed up to Burrard Island, is reported by Mr. Harman, diver, to be damaged in the forefoot and astern and making water freely.

The Mexico arrived from San Francisco at 2 p. m., having been detained about eight hours by the thick weather. She brought a large number of passengers, a number of Chinamen, and a heavy cargo for Victoria.

The sealing schooner City of San Diego, having discharged her skins at Victoria, will sail to-night or to-morrow morning for San Francisco, where she will lay up until next hunting season begins.

PROVINCIAL COURT.

[Before E. Johnson, S. M.]

Sho Ting, a Celestial beauty, arrested on a warrant issued by Mr. Norman Bole, of New Westminster, and charged with receiving $450, embezzled by a Chinaman named Ah Ik, knowing the same to have been fraudulently received. Remanded to New Westminster for trial. When informed of the decision of the Court she said she would not go, and cried vigorously in Chinese.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

Ah Ling, stealing a clock. "Ah" pleaded guilty, saying that he took the clock so that he would be sent to gaol. He was accommodated with two months.

Andrew Reid, vagrancy; pleaded guilty. Remanded until Monday.

James Walsh, vagrancy. Officer Lindsay testified that prisoner had no visible means of support. Remanded until Monday.

The Row Over Riel.

Ottawa, Ont., special: Justice Richardson, who sentenced Riel to death, has received a number of letters threatening his life if Riel is hanged. The impression, however, strengthens daily that the rebel leader will not be hanged. Several prominent French Canadian journals are endeavoring to stir up race prejudice between that nationality and the English speaking population. One journal calls upon the French Canadians to ignore the English, to purchase nothing at their stores and only to speak the English language when it will bring Britain silver into their pockets.

A Plucky Girl.

ROCKFORD, Ills., Sept. 16.—Miss Nellie Dean, daughter of a wealthy lumber merchant in Chicago, has created a sensation here by going to work as a factory girl in a spinning mill for a salary of sixty cents per day. It is understood she had been chaffing her father now and again by threatening to earn her own living. In a bantering way he told her he would give her a dollar for every cent she would earn. She saw in this her opportunity and sought and found work in the mills. If her father comes down according to his agreement her salary of sixty cents will grow to $30 a day, a figure which makes her the envy of all her associates. She has lots of resolution and will undoubtedly stick to her employment until she makes her fortune, which she will not be long in doing.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

THE Dominion government has disallowed the ordinance passed in the Northwest council last year, exempting property to a certain amount from seizure.

IT is asserted that the Grand Trunk of Canada is in a scheme to purchase the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis and will use the road as a St. Louis connection.

LIEUT. GREELY, the arctic explorer, will open the winter session of lectures of the Scottish Geographical society, in Edinburgh, about the middle of November.

ADMIRAL TOPETI, under secretary of marine, has resigned his office, on account of the friendly terms embodied in the Spanish reply to Germany respecting the Caroline affair. The consuls of Germany at Carthagena and Linares have resigned. They are Spanish subjects.

THE Blackfeet Indians have a deeply rooted idea that an attempt will be made to disarm them shortly. When the police, under COL. HERCUMER, visited the Blackfoot reserve to make some arrests, the attitude of the Indians was anything but friendly. The Macleod Gazette says the government should constantly bear in mind the very strong probability of serious trouble with these Indians in the near future.

THE British association devoted a day to a discussion of free or fair trade. The speakers were unanimous in declaring that any return to protection was as impossible as it would be disatrous. PROF. LEONE LEVI said that, if intelligent countries like France, Germany and the United States prefer sacrificing their national interests for the benefit of social classes, that was no reason why Great Britain should do the same

ON the whole, we are inclined to think that the net result of the controversy between the late Viceroy and the present Secretary of State will be held to be that LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL was not far wrong in his main contention, and that LORD RIPON, on the other hand, has made a satisfactory answer to the detailed criticisms of his general financial policy. LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL, like his chosen prototype, LORD BEACONSFIELD, is no great master of detail. He aims at a general effect, and he sketches with a large brush and a free hand. The inherent danger of his method of controversy is, that he often hits his own friends as hard as he does his opponents. The same acts and the same policy cannot be wrong when LORD RIPON is responsible for them and right when LORD LYTTON is their author; and LORD RIPON had little difficulty in showing that many of the acts for which he incurred the censure of the Secretary of State were initiated by his predecessor and only continued by himself.

REFERRING to the usefulness of the Gatling gun, GEN. SIR FREDERICK MIDDLETON said lately: "What use the gun may be in warfare amongst civilized nations, I don't know. I can easily conceive that in case of bodies of troops crossing a road or attacking a salient point of a fortification, or even if a body of troops could be surprised in the open, that the gun might be of great value, but in these cases it could be hardly useful for more than one drum of cartridges. In our own country, for Indian warfare, it is in my opinion absolutely valueless. It surprised the Indians at first, but the real effect of the gun on them could be imagined when after the first surprise they fired on the gun with the result of forcing it to retire with the loss of one man seriously wounded (he died afterwards) and one horse killed. In another case CAPT. HOWARD fired on a house three stories high, and only built of inch planks, behind which the body of rebels were lurking, with the result of one shot hitting the corner of the house out of 18 fired. The house was afterwards found to have 50 women, children and priests in it, not one of whom was hurt, though a priest was shot in the leg by a rebel armed with a Winchester." Of the value of the weapon for us in naval warfare he would not speak. It was used in the English navy in the maintop, but there it was used on bodies of men who had little space for getting away. What the effect of the gun on civilized troops might be was another question which he could not touch.

THE YOUNG LIBERALS' CONVENTION.

Amongst other topics to be discussed by the so-called "Young Liberals" at their Convention in Toronto are manhood suffrage; no class or sectarian legislation; the abolition of the senate; elective governors; the abolition of the veto power as now exercised by the parent government; abolition of all pensions and superannuations; Canadian Independence. There can be no valid objection to the discussion of these subjects, although there are those to be found who profess to see in the discussion of Independence an act of treason; but we conceive it to be a subject to be calmly and freely discussed without giving offence to any. It is not yet established that Canada has passed the infantile stage and prepared to walk alone, and the present discussion will neither hurry us into the arms of Uncle Sam, nor from the protecting folds of the Union Jack. A discussion will result in establishing a test of the prevailing feeling of the people, and more particularly of those who follow the present generation of Parliamentarians.

The Week asserts that the gathering was to be an avowedly party one, and that opposite views thereof would be taken by the respective organs of the two parties. The Grits will say that when a country has fallen under the dominion of intrigue and corruption the natural appeal is to the generous enthusiasm of its youth. Tories will say that the Grits, having failed to win to their side the mature opinion of the country, are fain to address themselves to the excitable imaginations of inexperienced boys. That much will come of the Convention as a move in the party game is hardly to be expected: political revivals, as attempts to stir up enthusiasm generally, and apart from a definite issue, are seldom successful; nor is it easy to see why, if there is a definite issue, it should be submitted exclusively or specially to the young. Yet, irrespectively of any question between Grit and Tory, there is, perhaps, a fitness in the choice of the present moment for turning the attention of these young men to the political destiny of their country. They represent the first generation which has been thoroughly native to the soil. Hitherto Canada has been in every sense a dependency: the influence of the Imperial country has prevailed, the policy and the political leadership have been British, the high places of public life and the professions have been filled by men of British birth, though of late they have been men who have come over as children, not, as in former days, adult immigrants. Canada is now Canadian; she is summoned to solve for herself the problem of her own future, and she has gained with other liberties, after a certain struggle against natural prejudice, the right of free discussion, with regard not only to her domestic affairs but to her external relations. Nobody dreams now of rebellion or conspiracy; if the Home government sometimes makes mistakes, and unwittingly does us mischief, there is nothing in its conduct or attitude to excite disaffection. On the other hand, nobody is any longer afraid of being denounced as disloyal for advocating, without breach of affection to the Mother Country, whatever he conscientiously believes to be the real interest of the Canadian people.

THE WORLD'S NEW DANGER.

The Scottish Record, reviewing the political situation of Europe and the east says, the tyranny of kings was the old danger; the tyranny of the majority is the new danger. In America it appears in vast whiskey rings, ruling whole cities by the votes of the drinking masses—in armed mobs, shooting Negroes down South, and Chinamen out West. In Ireland it appears in ebullitions of violence. In England it crops out in reckless riots Already it threatens to abolish the House of Lords—to disestablish the churches, and escheat the landlords. Only one step more, and it will demand the plunder of stores and banks and of all riches. Another last step, and it will rage for the blood of rulers and civil magistrates. This is certainly the tendency of Modern Radicalism. Its motto: "The people's voice is God's voice, is shocking idolatry and blasphemy." If a man can fully believe that, what enormities may he not do? Does not every wise man know well that too often the people's voice was the devil's voice? It will lead to villainies, which its Liberal leaders never intended. The far East becomes the West at last. American liberalism will hardly hang murderers; but it shoots down plenty of honest men; these two errors go together, they lead to anarchy and tyranny. This new danger rules in many churches. They obey not the word of God, but the voice of the people as expressed by a majority, often cozened and packed. Their aim is to unite all weaker parties under their power, and then to rule them by cunningly cozened majorities, till their spirit is broken and lost. Their cry is, "Cast in your lot with us, let us all have one purse." But when they get your lot and your purse they keep all, and only rule you sternly by their majorities, but make you also liable for their details, like the poor shareholders of the Bank of P. E. Island. What is the remedy? One only. "If sinners entice thee, consent thou not." Stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled with the yoke of bondage. As long as you do this faithfully, you can sit safely under your own vine, and toil to save the church and state. But as soon as you join yourself with a majority you are liable to their tyranny, whether it be as shareholders in a bank or in a partnership—or in a Church Union. This is the world's new danger, as our brethren in Australia are finding out at a fearful cost. What a mercy that we are forewarned!

WESTERN DEVELOPMENT.

The HON. THOMAS WHITE, Minister of the Interior, was tendered a complimentary dinner at the St. James Club, Montreal, last week. In responding to the toast in his honor, he made an excellent speech, from which we make the following extracts: "You have been good enough to refer to the difficulties which attach to the particular department over which I have been called to preside. I have been for a short time in the department, and I have had an opportunity of knowing somewhat of the details and the questions that come before it. I can only say to you that I do not think the public opinion concerning those difficulties has been in any way exaggerated. The building up of that great North-west, and the placing there of a contented and prosperous people, are the questions upon which the future of this country largely depends. I do not believe as I have said in my place in Parliament—and the more I think of it, the more I am convinced of it—that the independent existence of the old provinces of Canada would be worth ten years' purchase if we had not the great Northwest upon which to build our future. We have an example on the other side of the line of what has been done in connection with western development. The marvellous progress of our friends upon the other side is due to a great extent to western development. When we remember that their New England States, or many of them, have in recent years been almost stationary in their progress—when we remember that the one state of New York, one of their most prosperous states—perhaps the most prosperous state if we speak of prosperity as an accumulation of wealth in the hands of individuals—has lost 1,400,000 of its native population who have migrated westwards—when we remember that with the spirit of migration which obtains especially on this continent the people of Eastern Canada, as well as from the Eastern States of the Union, are moving westward, we must see that were it not for the great Northwest our people must drift into the neighboring republic. I think I may say that we should make the great west a field for prosperous settlement, not only for our own young men who are seeking new fields of enterprise, but for our neighbors of the States, who may find those new fields on this side of the line, as in some respects many of them are doing at this moment. I think I may say that upon our success in building up that field must depend the future prosperity of Canada. Under these circumstances you have not over estimated the difficulties and responsibilities of the department upon whose administration must depend the future prosperity of the country. Under those circumstances I feel that in entering upon my duties, backed as I am by the hearty sympathy of so many of the people of Canada—backed as I am by the national sentiment of both political parties—backed as I am by the representatives of the great interests in this Dominion—that I may fairly feel that in entering upon my work I do so with the consciousness that if my duty is well done I will have the approbation of the men whose approbation is well worth cultivating and having."

CONSUMPTION OF TEA.

With the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway to a port in British Columbia, says the London Free Press, a large portion of the tea coming from China and Japan to Canada, and perhaps some of the European countries, will be carried by that route. Every year when the crop of tea has been picked by the almond-eye children of the Orient, a great race takes place on the high seas between vessels striving to reach American and English markets in order to get the high price usually paid for the early pickings of the fragrant leaf. As has been previously pointed out the C. P. R. route will enable competitors who avail themselves of its advantages to gain several days on those who are endeavoring to reach the Canadian or chief American ports by another way. Recently published statistics show that the Canadian trade is an item of considerable importance. Last year we consumed 16,066,281 pounds, or about five pounds to every soul capable of quaffing the stimulating beverage, while in 1875 the amount imported was but 10,772,199 lbs. The consumption of coffee has also increased from 1,448,093 lbs. in 1875 to 2,413,699 lbs. in 1884. The figures relating to cost show one of two things, either that we are bringing in a cheaper class of tea now, or that the market has declined very much within the past ten years; for it seems that the ten million pounds in 1875 cost more than the sixteen millions in 1884, the figures being $3,182,196 as against $3,480,701. It may be that both these causes have combined; but if we are guided by the showing of the government analysts, it would appear that the theory of inferiority is sustained. Out of ninety samples examined only fifty-seven were found to have been genuine. It is more than probable that the adulterated samples were found among the green teas subjected to the examination, as it is in that class that the adulterator finds his best field of operation. Poor teas are chopped up, re-rolled, and by the use of Prussian blue are so faced as to resemble the highest grades of genuine green tea. An artificial astringency is also imparted by the use of chemicals. The American government has taken steps to prevent the importation of this class of stuff; but Canada has no protective measure of that kind in operation. When it is known that the average cost of all the tea brought into the Dominion last year did not quite reach twenty cents, it is only reasonable to infer that a great deal of this trash finds its way into our markets. The remedy lies largely in the hands of consumers. If they will but learn to recognize the difference between a genuine Mayune and a colored Pong Suey—which is not a difficult thing by any means—and refuse to purchase the latter, dealers will no longer offer it for sale.

FOR FIGHTING FLAMES.

Improved Methods for Extinguishing Conflagrations—Modern Appliances.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

"I am always very particular about taking proper care of matches in my house," says one man to another, "for I don't know anything more disagreeable than a fire. In the first place, the police officers run recklessly through your house, and then, when the fire companies arrive, long sections of dirty hose are dragged through the hallways, and, even if the fire be but a slight one, the place is deluged with enough water to float a man-of-war."

Such is the current opinion that exists regarding fires and firemen. There is some basis for it, to be sure, but in the main it is wrong. There are many things more pleasant to have about the house than a fire. When the flames once get a headway it is a fight between water and fire, and while both are quite damaging to property, the first is less so than the latter. Water injures to a great extent; fire, if left alone, devours entirely. But the most general mistake people make is concerning small fires. They believe that a heavy stream of water is turned upon the tiniest flame, just as it is thrown upon a raging fire that has more than gained control of a big building. This is not the case, and the false idea is due to the want of knowledge as to the proper equipment of the fire companies.

In the first place the nozzles of the hose now in use are so arranged that any sized stream of water can be thrown and controlled by a thumb-screw at the side, which works at the slightest pressure of the finger. By this the full force of the water may be allowed free vent, or the size of the stream may be reduced to a very tiny flow, even smaller than that which comes from the ordinary street-sprinkling hose. The purpose of this is obvious. When a fire alarm comes in and the engines arrive at their proper destination the first thing to be done is to get a line of hose out and attach it to the engine. Unless the fire be a large one the nozzle is closed tightly, and the firemen drag the hose along until the fire is found and then turn the water upon it, regulating the size of the stream by the size of the fire.

The nozzle spoken of serves still another purpose. There are times when a smoldering fire so fills a room with smoke that it is impossible for the firemen to enter. It does not take a big fire to cloud a room with smoke, and often when the smoke is densest the fire is smallest. How to enter such a place is then the question which the fireman has to answer. To go in bodily with his hose in hand would mean almost instant suffocation, and to turn on a heavy stream of water and throw it into the room would mean reckless damage to property. To obviate both these objectionable features the nozzle of the hose is so arranged that by the proper application of a slight pressure of the hand the water can be sent forth in a spray, and this clears the atmosphere enough and drives the smoke away sufficiently to allow the men to enter. There is a joint in the pipe a few inches below the end, which, when loosened, allows the water to escape on all sides, throwing it forward in a shape somewhat similar to an umbrella. This drives the smoke before the men and makes the entrance comparatively easy.

Once at the origin of the fire, the water can be turned directly upon it. In many of the smaller fires engines are not brought into play at all. The insurance patrol answers all alarms, and the light apparatus they carry is especially adapted to small fires, and they extinguish them with little or no damage to surrounding property. The improved nozzle has been used by the fire department for several years, but, strange to say, its many advantages are either unknown or not appreciated by the people.

A Congo Slave Pen.

[Stanley's Book.]

There are rows of dark nakedness, relieved here and there by the white dresses of the captors. There are lines or groups of naked forms; upright, standing or moving about listlessly; naked bodies are stretched under the sheds in all positions; naked legs innumerable are seen in the perspective of prostrate sleepers; there are countless naked children, many were infants, forms of boyhood and girlhood, and occasionally a drove of absolutely naked old women bending under a basket of fuel, or cassava tubers, or bananas, who are driven through the moving groups by two or three musketeers.

On paying more attention to details, I observe that mostly all are fettered; youths with iron rings around their neck, through which a chain, like one of our boat chains, is rove, securing the captives by twenties. The children over ten are secured by three copper rings, each ringed leg brought together by the central ring, which accounts for the apparent listlessness of movement I observed on first coming in presence of the curious scene. The mothers are secured by shorter chains, around whom their respective progeny of infants are grouped, hiding the cruel iron links that fall in loops or festoons over their mamma's breasts. There is one adult man captive amongst them.

Egypt's Arable Soil.

[Frank Leslie's Illustrated.]

The arable land of Egypt is about equal in extent to the state of Rhode Island. The White Nile, issuing from lakes Albert and Victoria Nyanza, is broad and deep, never above a few feet, and supplies the permanent source of the river of Egypt. None of the Abyssinia tributaries coming from the mountains of Abyssinia, brings such vast quantities of soil with it that it is slowly raising the bed of the river, as well as extending it on each side. On the plain of Thebes the soil formed by deposits has in 3,500 years encroached upon the desert a third of a mile, while the ruins of Hierapolis in the delta, which once stood above the reach of the inundation, are now buried in a mud deposit to a depth of nearly seven feet.

Cavi ar Russian Relish.

[Frank Leslie's Illustrated.]

Caviar, the well-known Russian relish, is made from the roes of large fish, especially the sturgeon. The process of manufacturing consists in thoroughly cleaning the roe from its membranes, salt is then mixed in, and the liquor pressed out, after which the caviar is dried and packed for sale. The best kind is usually packed in kegs, while an inferior quality is made into small cakes. Although Russia almost monopolizes this branch of commerce, Hamburg has also taken up the industry.

The Most Popular Remedies.

[Exchange.]

A medicinal statistician in Boston took the trouble to examine 3,576 prescriptions at a drug store to see what remedies were the most popular. Quinine took the lead by making part of 291 prescriptions; morphine came next, in 174; bromide of potassium was in 144; iodide of potassium in 135, and muriate of iron in 134. The total number of articles in the pharmacopœia is 984, and 501 of them were asked for in one form or another.

Hetzel's Banking-House.

The great banking-house of the Rothschilds at London employs mainly women, claiming that they are more reliable and accurate in their work than men.

TRANSFORMATIONS

OF PAPER INTO VARIOUS PECULIAR AND USEFUL PRODUCTS.

Xylonite, an Imitation Glass for Cathedral Windows—Counterpanes and Pillow Shams—Paper Pulp Fabric—Methods of Manufacture.

[Commercial Bulletin.]

The uses of paper, outside of its ordinary commercial purposes for printing, writing, and wrapping, are constantly increasing, its great cheapness suggesting its employment for widely differing purposes. Some of its latest uses, in view of its properties as generally known, seem very curious, but are not more so than its employment as car wheels, in which it has been very successful. It is in fact one of the most adaptable products of the hand of man. One of the most remarkable uses is the manufacture of xylonite, which can be made in imitation of horn, rubber, tortoise shell, amber, and glass. Zylonite may be adapted to a wide variety of uses, but one of its most valuable is an imitation glass for cathedral windows.

The xylonite is much less brittle than either horn or ivory, and much more flexible. As imitation tortoise shell it can hardly be distinguished from the genuine article. In the manufacture of xylonite plain white linen paper, made from cotton or cotton and linen rags, is taken and first treated to a bath of sulphuric and other acids, in which it undergoes a chemical change. The next process is the washing of the paper to remove the acids, and it is then treated to another preparation of alcohol and camphor. Its appearance by this time is very much like parchment, and it can be worked up into plates of any thickness, and made perfectly transparent, or can be died all the brilliant colors that can be given to silk.

SHEETS AND SHAMS.

A widely different use from the above is in the manufacture of counterpanes and pillow shams. These articles are composed of two sheets of 205, 1 manila paper. To hold the sheets together, and to strengthen the fabric, small gummed twine is used at distances of three or four inches. The sheets are also hemmed about the edges so as to prevent tearing. Handsome designs may be and generally are printed upon the upper surfaces of the shams and counterpanes. The articles are very neat, serviceable, and cheap. All wrinkles can be removed by the patrons. As the paper will prevent the escape of heat about as well as a woolen blanket, it can be made a very serviceable article of bed clothing, as it can be left upon the bed if desired.

Though paper pulp is not strictly paper, a glance at some of its uses is properly within the scope of this article. A recent use for which a patent has been granted is the manufacture of sheathing and roofing paper. The sheathing paper is made from a pulp of spent tan bark, meadow hay, and mill waste as a center, with a layer of pulp on either side, composed of cotton or linen rags, waste papers, or a mixture of similar materials. The roofing paper has the same middle, but the covering is a pulp composed of satinet and colored rags, shoddy, and straw. Both of these articles are said to be excellent for the purpose intended.

PAPER PULP FABRIC.

Perhaps the most important of the recent inventions or applications of paper pulp is in the manufacture of paper pulp fabric. This material is designed for articles which require the characteristics of paper and, at the same time, much more strength than paper alone possesses. Paper pulp fabric in the past has been made by securing sheets of finished paper to sheet metal by means of a cement or an adhesive of some kind. This fabric was necessarily somewhat limited in area, as the area of the metal sheets were limited.

The latest paper pulp material is made in continuous webs or lengths in all desired widths. The fabric is composed of a wire cloth, of a desired fineness or coarseness, covered with paper pulp. It thus possesses all the strength of metal and all the flexibility, softness, and smoothness of paper. The continuous webs of paper pulp are combined with the continuous web of wire cloth, so that the pulp is forced through the meshes of the wire cloth, completely filling them and at the same time completely covering the wire.

METHODS OF MANUFACTURE.

The pulp is manufactured by an ordinary paper making machine, so as to deliver two independent and continuous sheets of paper pulp at certain points, from which the web or continuous sheets are fed into suitable pressure rollers. A roll of wire cloth is placed in the line of feed near the pressure rollers and is fed into them at the same time, and between the two continuous sheets of paper pulp. The rollers press the three webs together, and in the operation the two webs of paper pulp fill the meshes of the wire cloth as well as completely envelope it.

The fabric is afterward dried, and is then ready for use. Before being passed through the rolls and covered with the pulp, the wire cloth is water-proofed or not, as desired.

The fabric looks exactly like paper of the same texture and quality. The surface of this fabric may be finished by painting, varnishing, etc., or by treating it with a fire-proofing or water-proofing compound, or by covering it with finished paper, etc. As the fabric is a continuous sheet, pieces of the sheet can be easily cut into the proper shape for any use or for any article, especially those that can be formed without seam. The parts can be easily seamed together, however, if necessary, by paste or cement as in ordinary paper, and the joint may be united as perfectly as paper, as all the joints on the outer surface are of pulp.

After Gotham's Pet Dogs.

["Uncle Bill's" New York Letter.]

To most of these New York belles still is town the salvation of their pet dogs is the uppermost interest. The streets are hustled over every day by the official catchers, as a badge of license, with a muzzle all adjusted, is not a hinderance to these hunters, who are suspected of sending the more valuable captures to dealers in Scotch terriers instead of taking them to the pound—drowning. The catchers go out early in the morning, about the time that dogs are let out unwarily. On seeing a beast not closely protected they sneak up quietly behind, grab it by being both it wants to save itself from a bite and hurry with it to the wagon, or even to deliver a block or two.

Smelling Through a Brick Wall.

[Chicago Herald.]

"If there's a more invading, odor in this world than fish," remarked an explorer of a large wholesale establishment, "I don't mean that I'd like to see the odor, but I'd like to see the thing that can produce a stronger and all pervading smell. You see those big glass bottles of fish there? The bottles are hermetically sealed. Well, we'll go around to the next store-room. The door connecting the two rooms is forty feet from where the fish are, and the scent doesn't go around that way. Now, here we are on the opposite side of the division wall from the fish. Do you smell one? Of course you do. If there is anything in this world besides fish that can send its odor through a brick wall I'd like to know what it is."

Names People Pride Themselves On.

[Good Words.]

Can it be family pride or is it pure eccentricity that inspires such repetitions as Fitz-Barron Barron Barron, James Ashburner James Ashburner, Eva Eva Pickup Pickup, George Ellis Eyre Ellis and William Pitt Johnson William Prior Johnson? In these examples the reader will perceive that the surname, as well as the Christian name or names, appears in its place.

Mr. William F. Cody, Buffalo Bill, is 43 years old, and is said to be worth $500,000.

The Daily Times.

PUBLISHED EVERY AFTERNOON EXCEPT SUNDAY.

Victoria, Friday, Sept. 18, 1885.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always prepared to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided acts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Mr. and Mrs. Carey, of New Westminster, returned home to-day.

—Before purchasing Real Estate or insuring your life, see Rand Bros.

—The bank has cashed the Corporation check for the installment on the electric light purchase.

—The Geo. E. Starr brought over to-day 300 packages of flour and a large lot of miscellaneous freight.

—Anyone desirous of buying a good horse, harness and cart, can find a bargain by applying at this office.

—Remember the temperance lecture to-night in the Temperance Hall at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. TATUM, of the Society of Friends will speak.

—Brown beat Lowe last evening at the match game of pool at the Windsor Hotel, by 75 points. The game was for 1000 points and a $100 a side.

—The Mexico brought 287 tons of freight for Victoria. Her total cargo is 963 tons. She also carried about one hundred passengers.

—Thirteen packages of crude opium and three of curios, arrived from Hongkong via San Francisco, by the Mexico to-day. They were consigned to Chinese merchants.

—Steamer Amelia will leave for Maple Bay on Saturday, 26th, and return in the evening. This will give persons an excellent opportunity to visit the Cowichan agricultural show, which is to be held there on that date.

—The post office was turned into a carpenter shop for a few hours to-day by an enterprising manufacturer of framed glass advertisements. Local tradesmen might find it advantageous to use our public building in the same manner.

—The nasty hole in the pavement at the door of the postoffice has not yet been repaired. A lady this morning accidentally stepped into it, when it was full of water. The expense of repairing it would not be more than a few dollars. Whose duty is it to have it done?

—Mr. R. Farrell, a gentleman of means recently from Ontario, has leased the valuable lot belonging to the Odd Fellows, on the corner of Yates and Douglas streets. The old buildings now on the lot will be removed, and a substantial brick block will take their place. Mr. R. Lipsett, real estate agent, effected the lease.

—Constable Sheppard has been acting sergeant on the police force since the appointment of Sergeant Flewin, by the City Council, to the office of Sanitary Inspector. His salary, however, has remained at the old figure. His request that the additional duties be recompensed is not an unreasonable one, and should be favorably entertained by the Council.

—Some members of the Anti-Chinese Union want to know if it is true as stated by the Colonist, that Chinese capitalists have been negotiating with the government with the object of embarking in the manufacture of iron and steel. If such negotiations have been, or are still, in progress, it would be interesting to know what encouragement they met with.

—List of letters detained for postage: Miss Jane Coristine, Montreal, P Q; Messrs Galt Bros & Co, Montreal, P Q; Miss Mary Ladd, New Tacoma, W T; John Insley, Colonial, New Westminster; Mrs John M Bill, Chicago, Ill; Mrs Ann Corcoran (2), Eagle Pass; Postmaster, Seattle, W T; P O Chilstrome, Portland, Ogn; Kwong On Wo & Co, Yale, B C; Pacific Rolling Mills, San Francisco, Cal; Le Boutillier Bros, New York; Mrs Aaron Johnson, Spence's Bridge; J A Mara, Kamloops; — Willis, Tacoma, W T; Wm Anthony, New Westminster; A H Harris, Tacoma, W T.

Misses and Children's Autumn and Winter Mantles, 20 to 40 inches long, from $1 25 each, at the CITY HOUSE.

LORD LANSDOWNE.

His Programme in Manitoba and the Northwest.

His Excellency the Governor-General was to arrive in Winnipeg last Wednesday by special train from Port Arthur. The civic addresses were to be presented to him that afternoon in front of the City Hall. In the evening a levee was to be held in the Legislative Chamber. On Thursday morning he was to visit the Stony Mountain Penitentiary, to return in time for luncheon at the Government House. The colleges, schools and other public institutions were to be visited in the afternoon. In the evening a dinner was to be given at Government House in his honor. Friday (to-day) he will visit Southern Manitoba, going to Manitou and Morden by special train. In the evening he will probably be entertained at the Manitoba Club. Saturday he will go to Minnedosa over the M. & N. W., and if the weather is favorable will drive across the plains to Brandon, where he will probably remain Sunday. If the weather be unfavorable he will go round to Brandon by train. Monday he will go west to Qu'Appelle, and afterwards on to the Rockies.

The Mongolian Must Go.

The pressure being brought to bear on the employers of Chinese labor at Seattle is having the desired effect. The Seattle Lumber and Commercial Co., has discharged all its Chinese employes, and the Black Diamond Coal Co., will follow suit. Seattle, like Victoria, is over-run with idle white men, many of whom will find permanent work with those two concerns. The recent deplorable outbreaks in Washington Territory, and elsewhere in the states, while they must be regretted by all lovers of peace, order and good government, nevertheless point a moral. It is just as possible for such things to occur in British Columbia, and especially in the neighborhood of Victoria, as it was at Seattle, or in the Squak valley. Our anti-Chinese Union is fortunately proceeding in a very temperate and constitutional way to accomplish its ends. The labor bureau is also engaged in a practical work, which we are happy to learn from the originators is meeting with success. On Wednesday, through the instrumentality of this association, five white men were found temporary employment. The Chinese must go, and with the aid of the restriction law, the efforts of existing organization, and, above all, the determination of white men to elevate themselves in the eyes of employers, the evil if not entirely removed in a few years should be very greatly reduced.

Day of Atonement.

The Jewish day of atonement, called Yum Kepoor, begins with the setting of the sun to-night. Services will be held at the Synagogue, corner of Pandora and Blanchard streets, commencing at 6:30 o'clock. They will be resumed with the rising of the sun to-morrow morning and will continue, without interruption, until the setting of the same. Throughout the day the services will be conducted by Messrs. Bornstein and Isaacs alternately, and all the members of the congregation will be in attendance. During the celebration of the holy day all the places of business of our Jewish friends will be closed, and every person over thirteen years of age will rigidly abstain from eating and drinking. It is an occasion of deep solemnity, during which the participants withdraw from the world, and attend solely to their religious duties.

At it Again.

The Colonist of this morning says: "THE TIMES stated last evening that its weekly edition would be published this morning. The statement was a mistake. The weekly edition of our excellent neighbor was printed yesterday." Our estimable old friend is again wilfully misrepresenting our words. This is what THE TIMES said: "The WEEKLY TIMES will be issued to-morrow morning and copies can be procured at the office of publication and at the bookstores." It is obvious that the Colonist, in its eagerness to injure this journal even in little things, cannot tell the truth. But even if we had used the word "published" it would have been strictly correct. Our critic does not know that there is a difference between the word "published" and "printed." He ought to attend his own night school.

Only a Farmer's Daughter.

It has an excellent plot, very interesting; its dialogue is good and in some places quite crisp and sharp. The acting parts are good, one or two being forceful enough to make reputations for those who play them. Had this work been presented in the Union Square, or Wallack's it would have attained much serious consideration and possibly have been hailed as quite a revelation. As it was, the success which it achieved was due solely to the strength of the play itself, and the careful acting of two or three of the characters.—New York Herald.

The Weekly Times

Was issued this (Friday) morning and copies can be procured at the office of publication and at the bookstores. As usual the latest news from all parts of the world up to the hour of going to press, as well as a replete epitome of the city and province news, will be found of great interest. "The monarch of the weeklies" in this province is still extending its circulation and influence. It should be found in every house in the land.

The Bazaar.

St. James Church Bazaar was continued yesterday afternoon and evening. Most of the articles remaining unsold were auctioned off by Mr. Joshua Davies, and the aggregate receipts of the fair will amount to about $800, a very respectable sum indeed. The B. C. G. A. Band, Prof. Haynes leading, was present, and played a large number of pieces of excellent music.

The Telephone Co.

The annual meeting of the Victoria Telephone Co. was held yesterday afternoon. The following officers were elected: W. T. Livock, President; R. B. McMicking, Manager; E. Crow Baker, Secretary and Treasurer; Directors, W. T. Livock, E. A. McQuade, Joseph Boscowitz, Joshua Davies, A. A. Green.

Word of Warning.

A correspondent in Cowichan asks us to publish the following note of warning: "A young man of the name of McDougal representing himself to be the son of a prominent gentleman in Canada, would do well to return to South Cowichan, and settle his just and lawful debts, with parties imposed upon by him."

Another Surprise to the Californians.

John S. Hayer, the newly appointed Collector of Customs for the district of San Francisco, is a lawyer of note and a "49er," but was not in the pool of contending aspirants.

Ex-Postmaster Hibbs.

The order for the extradition of Hibbs, the fraudulent Idaho postmaster, has been received from Ottawa. As soon as P. O. Inspector Murphy arrives from Salem, the prisoner will be given into his charge, and he will then be conveyed back to Idaho. Mr. Murphy will arrive in a few days.

Chief Engineer Charles J. Phillips, Victoria Fire Department, is in the field for re-election next October.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Dr. Powell, Superintendent of Indian affairs returned to the city from the Inlet last evening.

Mr. L. A. Hamilton, C. E., Land Commissioner, C. P. R., came down from the Inlet on the Western Slope last evening.

The Geo. E. Starr brought the following passengers to-day: G H Kennedy, J Brown, Ringorts, Horsfall, J Hibbard, Miss Hibbard, A M Banks and wife, J A Connorsford, W E Clow and wife, Mrs T Parker, Miss McCoy, M Peyser, W Leonard, Miss Julia.

The Chinese Can't Come.

Chung Wing, Mrs. Chung Wing, and a dozen other wealthy Chinese were cabin passengers by the Mexico to-day. The customs officers were instructed to collect the tax of $50 from each in the event of the non-production of the required certificates from the Hongkong authorities. This they did not possess, as they had taken their departure from China previous to the enforcement of our restriction act. Up to the present hour they are still on the steamer, and unless they pay the tax, there they will likely have to remain. It is probably a hardship on the big "trees," but our law is no respecter of persons.

CABLE BREVITIES.

An unsettled condition of affairs is reported in Corea. A complete withdrawal of the Chinese troops took place July 22. The recent treaty made between Russia and Japan is not satisfactory to the latter, which claims that it was made without authority.

The question of the settlement of the Mexican debt has been reopened by officials of the Mexican National bank, who have opened negotiations with Paris financiers on the subject.

Kegan, Paul, French & Co. have already cleared the £55,000 they paid for Gen. Gordon's diary, and have a handsome margin left.
